

‘BLAIR AT WAR’ by Nick Danziger

© Nick Danziger / nb pictures

In March 2003 the award-winning photo-journalist Nick Danziger and Times Literary Supplement editor Peter Stothard began a 30-day, ground-breaking study of a Prime Minister at war, with unprecedented access to Tony Blair's inner circle as he faced down an angry nation and deployed British forces against Iraq. Four years on these twenty-four remarkable photographs provide a poignant insight into Blair's hopes and fears at that time, inside George Bush's Camp David, in the power corridors of Europe and in the conflicts of Downing Street itself.

- Number of photographs: 24 framed and mounted with captions by Peter Stothard. Plus an introductory information panel.
- Dimensions of photographs: 20 inches x 25 inches (500mm x 630mm)
- Dimension of exhibition: The full running length of the exhibition is approximately 49.2 feet (15 metres) without gaps.
- Value for insurance purposes: GBP £24,000. The gallery is responsible for insuring the work while hosting the exhibition and during inward and outward transportation.

Availability:	April 2013 onwards.
Transportation:	The venue is responsible for organising the collection and onward transport of the exhibition, and for the associated charges, to be shared with the preceding/following gallery venue when possible.
Hire/Administration Fee:	GBP £1500 per month (minimum 1 month)
Photo sales policy:	Black and white silver gelatin prints: 300mm x 400 mm = GBP £1100
Other locations:	National Portrait Gallery, London - February to July 2007 Canadian War Museum, Ottawa, Canada February to May 2008 Simon Fraser University, Teck Gallery, Vancouver, Canada November 2008 to February 2009 London Gallery West, University of Westminster, London January - February 2010 'Portraits and Power: People, Politics and Structures'. Strozzi Centre of Contemporary Culture. Palazzo Strozzi, Florence, Italy November 2010 to January 2011
Accompanying information:
Talk:	Nick Danziger is an accomplished public speaker and broadcaster, and has given illustrated talks all over the world to charities, universities, geographical societies, private companies and NGOs.
Book:	'30 Days – A Month at the Heart of Blair's War' by Peter Stothard (HarperCollins)
Website	www.nickdanziger.com
